The Chair thanked them for their contributions and invited questions. Vice-Chair Medlock said he did not have any questions but did have comments. Noted that forward thinkers had seen that coming and expressed his hope that next month the Commissioners could decide on further action and have something to offer Prince Georgians during this horrid pandemic.

Commissioner Sadler noted need to have a lot of resources as she felt there may be a lot of people showing up. She stated that the ultimate goal is for people to know what their rights are in case they feel they have been discriminated against – including that they may have a claim under the ADA. She told her fellow Commissioners it was important they make sure they are prepared to handle the turnout, including having a platform that a lot of people can access.
